Voters Given Details Of Sanitary Project

So that taxpayers in this sanitary district might go to the polls fully informed on the urgent need of approving bonds in the March 12th election, the mass meeting in the Sunset School auditorium on Monday night presented speakers from state and county departments of health, as well as engineering experts who summarized plant details and costs.

Planning with broad outlook toward a sewage disposal plant that will take care of the needs of this district for more than twenty years to come, the trustees laid before the public the results of months of careful study of both the needs and the financing arrangements of the region. Through energetic work they gained approval of local and regional PWA officials, and their request for federal aid is now in Washington awaiting final sanction, which if granted will mean that 30% of the cost of materials and labor will be given as an outright grant, the rest to be cared for by bonds to bear 5% interest.

Total cost of the disposal plant and its attendant installations was set at $83,700 by consulting engineer Clyde C. Kennedy, of San Francisco, retained by the trustees, and in speaking to the audience he pointed out that of this sum $52,000 was set as the labor and material expense, meaning that $15,600 would be forthcoming from the government. This would leave a balance of $68,100 to be taken care of by the district bond issue.

"This will boil down to an average yearly increase of taxes over the twenty year period that the bonds will run, of 15c per $100 assessed value of property owned. The increase during the first few years will naturally be a few cents higher owing to interest, but this will mean that upkeep of the plant, retirement of the bonds and interest will all be included."

Representing State Sanitary Engineer C. E. Gillespie, of Sacramento, was E. A. Reinke, Senior Sanitary Engineer of the Bureau of Sanitary Engineering, who told of state inspection of our plant during the last several years and the leniency shown in view of earnest attempts by the board of trustees to solve the vexing problem of the disposal plant at the river mouth now in operation.

As long ago as 1926 this plant was inadequate, but was granted temporary permission to continue two additional years. In this period a lawsuit was begun by the trustees to secure additional land for expansion both as needed by constantly increasing demands and by protection against inroads of the river and ocean which threatened destruction of the entire plant. The suit dragged through the courts until last year when the trustees lost their case and had no alternative but the immediate planning for a new project, the results of which are now known in detail and will be subject of the bond election March 12.

County Health Officer Dr. R. M. Fortier, of Salinas, outlined the needs of this district and repeated his warnings for action to prevent a health menace developing in serious proportions. Just what steps might be taken by authorities in case the bonds did not carry was not stated in so many words, although vigorous prosecution will be within the jurisdiction of the officials.

Trustees C. A. Whitney, chairman of the board, Hugh Comstock, Dr. J. B. McCarthy, F. P. Howard, A. T. Shand, were complimented for their foresight in planning a disposal plant which will not only care for regional needs over a long period, but which will give opportunity for districts at present outside the area to connect with the system, and to have done this with sufficient diligence to get under the federal deadline for financial assistance.

Election day is Monday, March 12th, with the polls at the Triangle Realty Company office on Dolores Street, between 7th and 8th, which will include the district known as Consolidated Voting Precinct No. 1.

The proposed site for the plant will be about 1200 feet toward the Carmel river bridge from the old Mission, and secluded in such manner as to spoil none of the natural beauty of the section, while its manner of treating the sewage will offer no air nor river pollution whatever. Such a system has been used in communities of the highest development where restricted area made necessary a location of the plant in closely built areas and yet without the slightest nuisance being created.

WORK OF NOTED ARTISTS TO BE SEEN AT EXHIBIT

The Carmel Art Association has put into effect a novel plan to help finance their new quarters and gallery. Member artists, including several nationally famous, have donated examples of their best work, and each person contributing $100 or more to the Association will be eligible to receive one of these pictures through a novel plan that has recently been evolved. Participants will have an equal chance at first selections, the order of choice to be determined by the drawing at an early date.

Donated pictures are now being exhibited on the walls of the new gallery and have attracted wide comment, due to the exceptional quality of the works shown. Members represented in the collection are William Ritschel, Paul Dougherty, Armin Hansen, Arthur Hill Gilbert, Charlton Fortune, Gene McComas, John O'Shea, C. Chapel Judson, Burton Boundey, Percy Gray, George Koch, Edith Maguire, Paul Whitman, Ferdinand Burgdorff, J. Culbertson, James Fitzgerald, Edna Maxwell Heath, Myron Oliver, Edith Strung, L. M. Curtis, Edward Fristrom, Homer Levinson, M. deNeale Morgan, and Charles Bradford Hudson.

In value, the collection of pictures exceeds considerably the total amount to be raised by this plan, and keen interest is being aroused in the forthcoming drawing.

Carmel Will Honor Serra Year by Grand Pageant

Father Junipero Serra returns to Carmel Mission this August to live again his deeds which are cherished up and down the chain of missions founded by him, and far beyond to whatever limits his name and influence are known. For this is Serra Year in California, and it is especially fitting that Carmel, the mother mission, where his physical remains were put to rest those years ago should this year be the site of the greatest pageant of all.

Long study has gone into preparation of this pageant by many authorities on Californiana, and it is fortunate that a resident such as George Marion, who has the stage of over fifty years at his fingertips, should be willing to take charge of the production. His generous attitude has fired other stalwart and capable Carmelites into volunteering services, and among them on the central committee will be Don Staniford, Frederick Burt and Frank Sheridan working with Father Michael O'Connell, pastor of the Mission.

It will be peculiarly Carmel throughout. Being now a separate parish, and attention centering on the Mission and the events that cluster around it, imagination is stirred by what possibilities exist for the August play. Powerful in native simplicity, the episodes may well stand unique in California drama, taking their tempo and their dimension from a life that was epical in its scope, and including in cast and in backstage workers that broad range of non-sectarian ability that has always characterized Carmel dramatic offerings.

CARMEL DOLLARS TO THE BANK OF CARMEL

BULLETIN: Persons having Carmel Dollars should take them to the Bank of Carmel. (Signed) Bernard Rowntree.

Mrs. A. Pachner and daughter Miss M. Pachner and Mrs. B. Solomon of New York City who for the past three months have been staying in Hollywood are now in Carmel stopping at Hotel La Ribera.

For a century and a half after its discovery by Spain in 1602, Monterey Bay slept undisturbed by the white man's ships. Then, in 1770, an expedition led by Don Gaspar de Portola and Father Junipero Serra reclaimed California for Spain. Monterey became the first settlement in California and the site of its mother Mission.

CALIFORNIA BEGAN HERE

With all of California to choose from, the men of Spain selected the Monterey Peninsula for their first settlement. In this region of calm, blue water, warm sunshine and pine and cypress forest, they found all they required for happiness and contentment.

Now, over a century and a half later, world travelers find the secret of real living at Hotel Del Monte. And in this secret California's history plays a colorful part. Where Spanish campfires flickered are famous golf courses (Pebble Beach, Del Monte and Cypress Point), polo fields, tennis courts, swimming pools. Where bewildered scouts sought trails are miles of bridle path and scenic roads, yours to enjoy in a climate warm in winter, cool in summer.

Up They Go Tomorrow In The Kite Contest

Tomorrow is the day! If you want to find any young person in Carmel from the age of two to ninety go over on Hatton Fields Mesa above the Mission and follow the kites. The annual Kite Contest is with us again, under direction of the Rev. Willis White, who has been so active in this and other community work through the years, with Rev. Melvin Dorsett as his chief assistant in the field of operations.

At 1:30 everybody will gather at Sunset School, and the parade will form under escort of August Englund, chief marshal, and Charles Guth, assistant marshal of the day, will go through central streets of town and then back down San Carlos Street to the Mission where a momentary stop will be made in honor of Padre Junipero Serra. Banners will show the way from there to the flying field.

This year a strict rule will be enforced to give a fair start to all entrants. Read carefully: No prize will be given to any owner who has his or her kite in the air before the official signal to start is given. This will prevent certain advantages taken heretofore by early arrivals. Five divisions will assemble under respective flags, which will be the Best Made, under red flag, Highest Flier, under the white, the Prettiest, under the blue, while the Oddest will be under the yellow, and the Filipino Fighting Kites will be in a division of their own.

Prizes will be $5.00 for the firsts and $2.50 for the seconds in each section, and judges will be Misses Ruth Huntington and Hazel Watrous, with Frederick Wright, for the Best Made; Mesdames George Siedeneck, George Ball and Frederick Wright for the Prettiest; Frederick Howard, John Catlin and Charles Cole for the Highest Flier; and George Siedeneck, John Dennis and Armin Hansen for the Oddest. Reverend Dorsett will be in general charge of the flying field, but has authority to deputize whomever he needs to assist.

Patrons for the contest will be the Women's Club, the Parent-Teachers Assn., Mrs. Vera Peck Milils, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hyde, Miss Elsie McFarlane, Rev. A. B. Chinn, Father Michael D. O'Connell, Mayor John Catlin, Daniel Willard, Perry Newberry, Mr. and Mrs. Wright, Miss Elizabeth White, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Bardarson, Jo Mora, Sen. Ed. W. Tickle, Mrs. Sidney Fish, Miss Ada Howe Kent, Mrs. Kilpatrick, Armin Hansen and Mr. and Mrs. Norman T. Reynolds.

The contest field will be roped off so that judges will have no interference, and from the number of youngsters who are building kites throughout the town it promises to be the biggest event of the sort in years. Last-minute materials may be had free at the Sunset School through generosity of public spirited citizens who prefer to remain anonymous, and there will be much lost sleep among the younger notables of this notable village tonight.

JUNIPERO CLUB OPENS FOR CARMEL YOUTH

Calling itself the Junipero Club, and yet being entirely non-sectarian in character, Carmel's newest organization had its opening night last Tuesday in its clubhouse at Dolores and 8th Streets. Temporary president was Paul Taylor, and membership for the inaugural evening was twenty-one, with indications that the list will mount rapidly. The formal election will be held February 2nd.

Admission to the club will be by membership card only, and the scope of the organization is outlined upon the card itself. "Membership is open to high school boys, and young men under twenty-five years of age, of Carmel and unincorporated environs. All who care to accept responsibility for helping keep the club property in good condition and to show respect for the club by gentlemanly conduct therein, may be members."

It will be an informal group directly under its own officers, and under supervision of the directors in questions of policy. These directors are Don (Doc) Staniford, Bert Hyde, Everett Smith, Frank Sheridan, Hal Bragg and Adam Darling.

Instructors serving at the club are O. W. Bardarson, in wrestling, George Whitcomb, in chess, C. L. Wilder, in pool, and others to sign up. In no sense will the club be an athletic or sporting club in the professional sense. It will not sponsor professional events that are over the borderline between the strictly recreational and the more commercially promoted. This does not mean, however, that teams for baseball and basketball will not be entered in strictly amateur leagues and similar activities undertaken.

It is emphasized that members cannot gain entrance to the club house without presenting their name, nor can they give entrance to other members not in possession of their own cards. Much interest is being shown on all sides, and those wishing to join should see any of the directors for details concerning this.

BUSINESS ASSOCIATION TO CALL MEETING

A very important meeting of all Carmel merchants has been called by the Carmel Business Association for Tuesday, February 27th, at the Pine Inn at 8:00 P. M. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the Business License Ordinance prepared by the License Committee of the association in conjunction with the City Council. The ordinance will then be ready to be presented to the City Council for their adoption on February 28th.

Since this matter concerns all business houses in Carmel, it is vitally important that all merchants be present.

Barnet Segal,
Secretary.

Unfairness Charged As License Fees Are Paid

Confessing judgment for business license fees due the city under Ordinance 54 for 1933 and the first quarter of 1934, Lotta Shipley, of the Moorish Rug Shop, and Bernice Fraser, of Fraser Looms will pay $25.00 each and settle their cases that have been in city court for the past several weeks.

The final hearing was Monday morning, and at that time Prosecuting Attorney Argyll Campbell suggested by Judge George Wood that the criminal complaint, sworn to on January 6th by License Collector Gus Englund, be dismissed and a new civil suit substituted. He explained that the existing complaint made the defendants liable for heavy fine or imprisonment if found guilty, while the new one would mean only the payment of fees due without penalties. This was done, with the above stated results.

"While this settles our cases," remarked Mrs. Fraser later, "it does not seem just for us to be the ones singled out for court action when there are still at least fifty-one license fees yet to be collected for the first quarter of 1934. Fees charged to some business firms have been arbitrarily reduced without formal request to the council for such reduction, and beyond that we are informed that the council has no jurisdiction in the matter should such petition be made."

This reference to council action meant that at certain times recently the board has been addressed by business owners asking for reduction of fees owing to the ordinance clause making jewelers or watchmakers subject to certain exemption, and the owners represented that they were carrying a line of jewelry.

The entire matter of business licensing is now under scrutiny by the council and by business groups about town, and on the evening of Monday the 26th there will be an open board meeting where the problems are to be discussed at length. It is freely admitted that there are inequalities in the present ordinance and that extensive changes will be made when all parties have had opportunity to air their opinions. Clauses favorable to the arts and to handcraft products will undoubtedly be inserted, with inclination toward flat rates, in so far as possible, for other business and professions.

COUNCIL TO MEET NEXT MONDAY ON LICENSES

Little result was had from the council session a week ago to hear from business men on proposed changes in the business license situation. It was hoped that a definite series of suggestions for a new ordinance would be forthcoming from groups about town, but as yet there is more study needed in ramification of the various divisions.

Another meeting for next Monday evening was set, although whether or not a complete working plan can be evolved by then is uncertain.

NEW POSTMASTER TO BE CHOSEN BY EXAMINATION

A competitive examination under the United States Civil Service Commission for Postmaster of Carmel has been announced in the local office, receipt of applications for examination to close March 6th.

To be eligible, the applicant must be a citizen of the United States, reside within delivery of this post office, must have resided there for one year preceding date for close of receipt of applications, be in good physical condition and within the prescribed age limits. Both men and women are admitted. Application blanks may be had at the local post office. Persons applying will not be required to assemble in an examination room for scholastic tests, but will be rated on their education and business experience and fitness. The commission is not interested in the political, religious or fraternal affiliations of any applicant.

LOCAL HOTEL MEN ARE ON RATE-FIXING BOARD

Carl Stanley, manager of Hotel Del Monte, has lately been appointed by the government as chairman of the northern California district Hotel Code Authorities. Working immediately under him is Wm. Jeffery, of Salinas, who recently called a meeting of owners conducting establishments having more than ten rooms to set rates and do away with unfair practices in the hotel business.

Working with Jeffery will be George Cominos, of Salinas, Bernie McMenamin, of Pebble Beach, Babe Beasley, of King City, Ed Tickle, of Carmel Highlands, Pat Crosson, of Monterey's San Carlos, who will be secretary, and Frederick Godwin, of Carmel's La Playa, who will be treasurer. Much groundwork has already been done, and it is indicated that punishment for breaking the minimum rate rule will be a fine of five hundred dollars.

BOB DALTON LOSES BOUT IN SEMI-FINAL TO CHAMP

It took a champion to defeat Bob Dalton, featherweight member of the Carmel Athletic Club, sponsored by his father, Jack Dalton, in the Pacific Association Amateur Boxing Championships in San Francisco last Monday evening.

Bob had gone through his first three bouts, winning the third by a knockout of Sol Colabella, of Santa Rosa, in the second round, and then was matched against Horace Mann, of the Twin Peaks Athletic Club and in a whirlwind bout lost through technical knockout. Mann then went on to win in his division, and there was talk of matching the two boys at a later date because of the great interest the spectators took in their contest.

Frank Dalton, welterweight brother of Bob, was also in the northern fights, winning his first and losing his second by a decision. The boys have frequently been seen in action locally, and fans look forward to reappearance hereabouts.

THE MISSIONARY SOCIETY

This Society will meet at half past two Tuesday afternoon, February 27 at the Community Church. There will be an interesting talk on Cooperative religious work in California, by some one experienced in the work. A special musical number will add attraction to the meeting. A large attendance is hoped for.

COLLEGE NIGHT AT HOTEL DEL MONTE

Many Carmel residents are expected to take in the special "College Night" dinner and dance to be staged tomorrow evening at Hotel Del Monte in conjunction with the inter-collegiate golf tournament championship now underway at Pebble Beach.

More than a hundred students from Stanford and University of California will arrive early Saturday at Del Monte to watch the finals of the tournament. This will be followed by the dance in the Ball Room to which the public is invited.

The Ball Room will be decorated in gay colors and special music appropriate for the occasion will be provided by Ed Fitzpatrick and his orchestra. Winners of the championship tournament will be guests of honor.

The affair tomorrow night will be similar to "Big Game Night" which proved such a success last November. The same group of college students and graduates who were at Del Monte on that occasion will be on hand again. Robert Johnson, president of the "Big C" society at the University of California and Stan Beaubaire, rally chairman of Stanford are in charge of the event.

Ann O'Crotty will be joined by her sister Mrs. Richard Waters and her child. Mrs. Waters plans to stay indefinitely.

Can We Do It Again?

by Edward Kuster

In January, 1927, the largest delightful characterization of old audiences to date in Carmel's "Tony Patucci," remains in his theatrical history gathered in the former role. Of the thirty others Theatre of the Golden Bough to Guy Koepp, John Bartlett and Billie McConnell still live on the Peninsula. They are again in the play, the Pulitzer Prize comedy of California ranch life. When the play again goes on, a week from next Thursday, an almost entirely new cast will greet the audience across the footlight ramp of Carmel Community Playhouse. Only the producer himself, repeating Howard's has been her lot.

Death, divorce, sickness, removal for business and other reasons—in seven years the local picture has altered greatly. To newcomers looking only for a good show this will matter little. But oldtimers, Carmel's "kamaainas," will note it with a catch at the heart. Tom Bickle, faithful and beloved warhorse of our more splendid days of the theatre, B. T. (Before Talkies,) is dead. Metz Durham and his wife live in London. Tommi Thomson, a true amateur of acting in the best sense of that much-abused term, has been an invalid for several years, living with her mother in San Francisco. Peter Friedrichsen, Lucille Kiester and Louise Walcott are in Southern California—in Peter, appreciated now as he has always deserved to be, Carmel lost one of the most gifted of all 'round stage designers within the writer's ken.

Barry Parker and Hal Busey are in business in San Francisco, Ruth MacDowell Kuster lives in Honolulu, Helen Newmark in Palo Alto, Albert Molendyk in Berkeley. Ruth Price, married to a well-known architect, lives with her husband and children in Mexico. Marcelle Radgesky, Paul (Frederic) Rummelle, Hilda Argo, Wesley Dow—can anyone tell the writer where they are? The list grows too long. On with the show!

What has all this to do with the coming production? Nothing whatever. And what if the Theatre of the Golden Bough is now just a commercial talkie house, where we see the same shows nightly that thrill Podunk and Hickville? The fact remains that "They Knew What They Wanted" is still the finest folkplay of this Western country yet written, true as steel, abounding in humor but enriched with supreme moments of great drama. It could be played in a barn, in an attic, on a lawn. Players may come and players may go, and financial depressions may throw fine theatres onto the scrap-heap, but "the play's the thing" after all. And when Carmel comes to the new "They Knew What They Wanted" the community will meet a cast of whom it may well be proud.

NOEL SULLIVAN IN SONG RECITAL SOON

Lovers of song—of songs of Schumann, Brahms, Wolff, and the great song writers will go to the Denny-Watrous Noel Sullivan Recital tomorrow.

Friends of music and of the infinite song recital which makes no pretensions to the greatest virtuosity but frankly admits sheer joy of singing and love of music its excuse for being will not miss Noel Sullivan's recital on Saturday evening next February 24, at eight-thirty o'clock in the Denny-Watrous Gallery.

Carmel claims Noel Sullivan as one of its resident artists, for has

and does he not leave his thousand activities in San Francisco to spend week-ends in Carmel?

Noel Sullivan, with the pianist Elizabeth Alexander accompanying him, will sing a varied program of great interest. He is singing two songs the words of which were written by Langston Hughes, the music by Edward Harris. His program is as follows:

Ich GroÙe Nicht, (Heine) Schumann.

Wigmung, (Ruckert), Schumann. O Wusst' Ich Doch Den Weg Zuruck, (Groth), Brahms.

Ewig, (Jacobsen), Erich Wolff. It Is Enough, (from Elijah) Mendelsohn.

Carmel Takes Part In San Francisco Event

Carmel is playing a large part in an event of the near future. Many artists and writers, film and society folk are exhibiting a keen interest in the Exhibition and Sale of original poems, manuscripts, drawings, paintings, etchings, caricatures and musical scores to be auctioned by James Cagney, February 28th at the Womens' City Club of San Francisco at eight o'clock. The scheme originated with Langston Hughes, Negro poet and novelist now living in Carmel and is being carried out by the National Committee for the Defence of Political Prisoners of which Lincoln Steffens is National Chairman.

Edward Weston, Johan Hagemeyer, Sonia Noskowiak, Sybil Anikeef are contributing photographs, some of them of Robinson Jeffers, noted poet, who himself has given an unpublished poem to the Sale. Other portraits to be sold are of Lincoln Steffens, Langston Hughes, Roland Hayes and D. H. Lawrence. Authors living in Carmel have inscribed their portraits.

Contributions have come from many other countries also. Claude McKay sent a manuscript from Africa, Jo Davidson a nude from Paris, Ezra Pound an unprintable letter from Rapallo, Italy, and the famous philosopher Bertrand Russell three essays in his own handwriting from Wales. The English biologist Julian Huxley, who stayed in Carmel as a guest of Dr. D. T. MacDougal last year, sent three poems. Manuscripts and works of art have rained in on the committee from all over this country; Anita Loos sent a page of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," a national best seller a few years ago, for the complete manuscript of which she was offered $2000. John dos Passos, Sherwood Anderson, Archibald MacLeish, Genevieve William Steig and Gardner Rea, illustrators for the "New Yorker," Ralph Seymour Fletcher, who owns a house in Carmel, Witter Bynner, Granville Hicks, Henretta Shore, John O'Shea, Stanley Wood and Ray Boynton all donors of their works. John Evans, son of Mabel Dodge Luhan, has sent the manuscript of his novel "Andrews Harvest" which he finished writing in the Jeffers' tower recently and which has attracted wide attention. Lincoln Steffens has given five drafts of a fable, "The Pines and the Bowers" which appeared in the American "Spectator" and which tells a story of some bugs in Carmel pines. Photographs have been sent from Edward Steichen, "Vanity Fair" photographer, Brett Weston, Lewis Hine and Margaret Bourke-White, associate editor and chief photographer for "Fortune" and "Esquire."

A preview of these exhibits for the press and art lovers will be held at the home of Noel Sullivan in San Francisco on February 21st. The Sale will take place under the hammer of James Cagney on February 28th at the Womens' City Club in San Francisco, after a three-day exhibition. Among the society folk, artists and writers of the Peninsula and San Francisco who are acting as patrons, hosts and hostesses are Noel Sullivan, Albert Bender, Lincoln Steffens, Langston Hughes, Marie Short, Charles Erskine Scott Wood, Sara Bard Field, Mrs. Marcus Koshland, Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Meiklejohn, Gertrude Atherton, Edward Weston, Marie de L. Welch, Jo Davidson, Ella Winter, Mrs. Florence Wychoff, Dr. Irving F. Reichert, Prof. Benjamin Lehman.

Several of these will give talks during the Exhibition telling stories about the donors of the items and explaining the Scottsboro case. It is for the Defence Fund of this case that the Sale is being held.

True to advance warnings, Carmel was able to put on a show that kept the comrades awake and gave the other committees on entertainment something to stay awake nights about for future programs.

EXHIBITION of PHOTOGRAPHS

An exhibition of photographs by Willard Van Dyke is now being shown in the Denny-Watrous Gallery. Willard Van Dyke is a member of Group f. 64, he studied with Edward Weston in 1929, gave a one-man show at the de Young Museum in 1932 and has exhibited in the major Pacific Coast cities. At present he is official photographer for the P. W. A. P. (Public Works of Art Project) for Northern California.

The public is invited to see the photographs.

FRANK DALTON WINS

BOUT IN KING CITY

Frank Dalton, Carmel welterweight member of the Carmel Athletic Club, won a knockout after 19 seconds of furious milling in the first round of a scheduled four round bout at King City on Tuesday night. This is a speedy comeback from the decision that he lost in San Francisco during the recent amateur bouts in the Civic Auditorium, and he may be expected to continue the good work in local rings.

CLINIC GIVEN CARE TO CHILD AILMENTS

The Carmel Hospital free clinic of age is accomplishing excellent results, and has been especially for persons under sixteen years servicable in curing stubborn cases of children's skin diseases. Dr. Willard I. Covault has been on service for the past several sessions, ending his term last Saturday with many children returning to school fully recovered.

The clinic meets Tuesday and Saturday mornings from eight until ten at the Carmel Hospital, and prospective patients may register afternoons during the week at the Red Cross Headquarters in the El Paseo Building at 7th and Dolores, in charge of Miss Audrey Walton.

Dr. Margaret Levick is now on service, and will be so until March 24th.

SPARKLING PERFORMANCE THRILLS LARGE AUDIENCE by Hal Garrett

A large audience applauded till its hands were tired Wednesday night at the best operatic production this town has experienced in years.

"Patience," most delightful of Gilbert and Sullivan operas, directed by Arthur Gunderson and sung, acted, staged, and costumed superbly, was interrupted again and again by shouts of laughter, bravos and almost continuous clapping. Curtain calls at the end were numerous. Instead of yielding to discouragement over last summer's semi-fiasco, Director Gunderson tackled the job again, and this time hit the bull's-eye.

There are still left tonight and Saturday to see this show. Don't miss it, for Gunderson's operatic bull's-eye will remain a mark to shoot at.

Gertrude Bardarson's Jane, let us say at once, equals any professional "Jane" we've seen on any stage. Gordon Knoles proved a most gratifying Bunthorne, every inch an "aesthete" including the many required to encircle his waist. Madeline Curry's ability to negotiate the heavy and exacting role of Patience with an untrained voice, seemed little short of a miracle. Vocally as well as dramatically she won the audience.

Verne Williams as a rival poet Archibald deported himself convincingly and entertainingly. The successful performance owes something to Lily Walker. As Lady Angela this lively, vital little maiden kept her love lorn gestures ceaselessly waving, and contributed much to keep the pace from faltering. Edith Elasho and Dorothy Greene as Ladies Ella and Saphir were an attractive pair.

As the Duke, Wallace Doolittle warbled an enjoyable tenor, one of the few well handled voices in the cast. He and his pals Paul Day (Colonel Calverly) and Allison Shoemaker (a major) staged an amusing scene, posing as poets to attract the ladies. Robert Bratt as solicitor was well gotten up.

The orchestra, conducted by Gunderson and including such artists as Mildred S. Wright, Frederick Search, Geraldine O'Connell, Muriel Doolittle and Irene Cator, rose to some eloquent bits of accompaniment.

High spots were Gertrude Bardarson's lugubrious song on the "bull" fiddle (several recalls), her song with Gordon Knoles "Good Day to You," Madeline Curry's love aria, the maids in Victorian costume, the excellent dances designed by Billie McConnell, the well drilled Dragoons. Encores were frequent. The ensemble, a trifle slow in amalgamating, warmed up to a first act curtain that left nothing to be desired. From then on the show never faltered. Dragoons and Maidens remained on their vocal toes.

MUCH ATTENTION PAID TO NEW ART GALLERY

With its membership growing in gratifying manner, the Carmel Art Association announces that officers for the present year will be Armin Hansen, president; E. Carlton Fortune, vice president; Cora Nichols Graybill, secretary; and Paul Whitman, treasurer. On the executive committee will be Charles Parmelee Eels, Whitney Palache and Paxton Howard.

Business plans for future financing of the new art gallery on North Dolores have taken definite shape, and announcement of progress in the membership list will be made in an early issue.

Among the interesting social events taking place lately in the gallery was a bridge party last Thursday afternoon. There were eighty-four players, and among the prize winners were Ada Howe Kent, who won a Hansen etching, Mrs. W. J. Kingman, who received a Whitman etching, Mrs. Lee Tevis, who won an engraving by Bosworth, Mrs. George L. Wood, who took the Burgdorff etching, and Helen Coblentz who secured the Der Ling fan-shaped iron picture.

INCOME TAX ADVISORS TO BE IN TOWN TODAY

Don C. Sadler and Adrian Cavanaro, deputies of the United States Revenue Department, will be in the Bank of Carmel today to assist local people with their income tax reports, having been here since last Wednesday for this purpose.

They will go to Monterey next week, and any Carmelite wishing their help with the complexities of their returns may apply at the First National Bank.

Mrs. Gwendolyn Stearns received injuries to her face last week when the horse she was riding ran under a tree. She is wearing bandages that cover bruises and a fractured nose. The accident occurred on the Tevis Ranch where Mrs. Stearns rides almost daily. She was fortunately accompanied on the ride by Major Morgan.

THE APRIL ELECTION

That the city council, with a considerable part of the residents of Carmel, did not see the advantage to the village of acquiring the Forest Theater properties at what amounted to practically a gift, conducting there a municipal open-air playhouse by arrangement and lease to amateur dramatic organizations, building tennis courts and playgrounds upon part of it, and using C. W. A. assistance to pay the costs, came as a distinct shock to the writer. Up to the day that it proved impossible to get a united council to see the advantage of the move, or to convince a number of quite reputable citizens that the plan was without graft and corruption, I had believed that Carmel was practically unanimous for advancing projects of an artistic nature, and that whoever went upon the membership of the council, he would, within reason, seek to keep the village moving toward the high ideals that it has followed so long, and so acceptably.

Now I question it. I believe now unless a quorum of the council favorable to those ideals is elected in April, the future of the town is not secure. There is the danger that utilitarian ideas, represented by concrete, will replace the simplicities of nature. We are not so strongly of one mind as I had believed. The trend toward commercialism is gaining ground. Unless more interest is shown by those who want Carmel kept as it is, and more activity is given to the political situation now at hand, we may expect to become another commonplace small town, one of the many.

Three councilmen will be elected in April; two, John C. Catlin and Robert Norton hold over another two years. Three of these five people can control the future destinies of the village. Councilmen Clara Kellogg and Herbert Heron have refused to be candidates for reelection. They will retire at the end of their terms. Councilman John C. Jordan, his term also expiring, has not announced a decision upon his candidacy. It may be that three new members of the council will be named at the polls.

The life histories of these three nominees should be studied carefully. Are they living in Carmel because they love the sort of place Carmel is, or are they here to make money, and would make more money if Carmel were bigger, livelier, more enterprising? Would they like to have a Chamber of Commerce busy boosting Carmel out of the slump where

THE ANCIENT FEVER

Lost among sharpened fragments of old delight,
 We grow distraught and ragged, and the wise
 Heart that wearies at last of its lovely lies,
 Declares itself a frosty anchorite;
 The heart distrusts the joy too thin and bright
 Stretched perilously between our breathless eyes,
 And fears the fire that twists in the veins and dies,
 And bids us bitterly rest in the sober night.

But gradual and subtle is this death:
 Mysteriously hardy is the lover,
 And love still burns with the ancient fever that killed it;
 Dust locked to dust grows cold, the quiet breath
 Succeeds the tempest; but the storm gone over,
 Love cries again and turns to the blast that stilled it.

—Margaret Fraser
 In "College Verse"

NOW IS STILLED

O now is there is rhythmic flow of white
 Where yesterday was Autumn's leaf of gold;
 A fairyland of muted light on light;
 A breath of peace that softly would enfold

The city's blazon splendor. Now is stilled
 By depth of snow the clamor of the street,
 As though a greater force than man had willed
 The pause of solitude; the snuffed-out beat

Of clanging bells, of traffic shocks and jars;
 A silence magnified for man to see
 Beyond the noisy riveting of bars
 Essential beauty of tranquility.

BIRDS AGAINST THE SKY

A silken thread of white flung to the sky,
 Now tangled in the branches of a tree,
 Now frayed to glossy bits, and falling free:
 The ptarmigan in winter plumage fly.

these old-timers have dumped it? Would they advertise Carmel as the "Fastest growing town in California"—if it were? And would they be perfectly happy living in Salinas if business there were as good?

Not but what there are plenty of business men in this village with every ideal the most hopeful lover of our Carmel could ask. I could name a score who would better serve the interests of the people than would our artists and writers, perhaps. Big-town men and women, who do business here for the reason that this is the one place that they want to live in. And nine out of ten of them would promptly refuse to consider becoming a councilman, or worse, a candidate for the council.

That Carmel may be kept to its course as a village of distinction, men and women with ideals must sacrifice themselves and serve it on its council. And the people of the village, who would hold Carmel to its course, must vote for these men and women and elect them. It is the one hope of saving Carmel from becoming ordinary and commercial.

A THING WE MUST HAVE

The sanitary district bond election on Monday, March 12, opens the spring season of local voting. On Friday, March 30, comes the election of a school trustee to fill the position of the incumbent, Clara Kellogg, who will not compete for reelection. Then, on Monday, April 9, is the city election for three councilmen.

While interest in the sanitary bond election is great, the general feeling is that there is no alternative but to vote the bonds. Opposition is negated by the threat of the state board of health that the present disposal plant will be condemned by them as a menace to health. It has already been allowed to exist too long, and must be replaced now by a modern and sanitary arrangement. Working with state engineers, the project as planned by the local trustees, meets every demand of public health, and answers the future needs of an expanded district for many years to come.

At that same election, three trustees must be named to carry out the plans and build the plant. It is to be sincerely hoped that the same men who have worked long and devotedly upon the planning will be left upon the board to carry it through. Vote for Hugh Comstock, Dr. J. B. McCarthy and F. P. Howard.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

Down on the Carmel-San Simeon Highway, a work crew from the San Luis Obispo end of the job is almost in sight of a crew from our end, a little more than two miles apart. It may take six months to bring these crews together, and open up travel over what has been since the beginning of time, one of the most hazardous trails in the west. Not but what it was traveled Viscaino. As they kept the sea in view most of the way, wanting to get the comfort of perhaps sighting the two ships that were their escort, they must have traveled pretty close to the lines of the pre-sent highway. For another span of centuries, only the hunter or prospector for gold ever made his way through this one hundred and twenty-five mile stretch of rugged mountains a bit thinner and tougher, with pelts of wild cats and mountain lions, tall fish stories, and the tale of having bathed in the tub at Big Sur—about 40 miles—and a semi-weekly stage made Pfeiffer's ranch. Beyond that was the wilderness.

My father, Captain Frank D. Newberry, who lived in Carmel back in 1911 and 1912, used to borrow Dr. Peetes' two burros, load upon their backs some hundred pounds of camp paraphernalia and food products, poke a rifle under the diamond hitch, and start off alone down the coast. He might be gone a month or more, coming back I came to Carmel in 1910, Harry had a map which showed a number of pieces of land, mostly fractions of 40, 60 and 80 acres, that could be had from the government at next to nothing. I always intended to pick up a piece or two, but never got further south than the Big Sur. Opportunity's knocking never sounded very loud to my ear.

There comes a feeling of sadness at the thought of automobiles whizzing through this stretch of the wilderness, so long shut off to any but the crudest of traffic. Within a few months the last of our coastal frontier will be gone, and the deer, cougars and wildcats will hide themselves back in the mountains, beyond the odor of gasoline fumes. It will end something rather fine that held the glamour of romance.

Charles McMorris Purdy, writer of fact and fiction, and of fact that is mingled entrancingly with fiction, has been having a series of travel articles in Harper's Bazaar that have awakened interest through their romantic coloring. Not but what Purdy knows the countries of which he tells, but the things he discovers in these countries never would find place in Baedeker's Guide Books. He sees the unusual, and writes of it delightfully.

Purdy has been coming on rapidly since he left Carmel, several years ago. Two novels, and enough material for several books in short stories and travel articles have been published, and we find him listed in the 1933-34 issue of Who's Who Among North American Writers as one of the important men. Stoke's American Spectators' Year Book, too, has a sketch of his career.

Game and Gossip, the Hotel Del Monte magazine of a number of years ago, comes to life again with Volume II, Number 1 as a semi-annual. S. F. B. Morse is listed as publisher, with Herbert Cerwin, once of the Pine Cone staff, as editor. The magazine is a marvelous piece of the printer's art, beautifully illustrated, with cover in two colors—a reproduction of a Jo Mora bronze of polo players.

Mostly about the sports which are so important at Del Monte, with articles by the leading authorities of each, it deals with polo, golf, tennis, trap-shooting and the fashions, and then has an article by Talbert Josselyn upon "Carmel-by-the-Sea," a short, short, short story. Among the pictured celebrities are our mayor, John C. Catlin, the Sidney Fish's, Jo Mora and

Mrs. Ranald Cockburn, and some other man or woman who has served closely under William R. Hearst, he has a great admiration and profound liking for the editor.

Another publication which will get plenty of attention here is the Carmel Dairy Depot's little booklet, "Carmel People Talked About." It was given out at holiday time to the friends of the dairy, and was so well received that a second edition had to be printed to meet the demand.

The booklet is made up with articles and stories of the writers, artists, musicians and notables who have given Carmel its fame, and is illustrated with portraits and caricatures in line-cuts and woodblocks. Most of the material and pictures are from the files of the Pine Cone. The cover is in colors.

At the Community Church one Sunday morning during service came the time for silent meditation. Rev. Dorsett had said the few preliminary words, and gave the signal that should have started the music to accompany the deep reflection. This signal flashes in another room, where a phonograph with amplifier sends its tones through the auditorium.

Nothing answered the signal, nor did a repeat of the flash bring the music. Reflection and meditation had to go without the soothing of melody. Somewhere the mechanics of the arrangement had failed of response.

Investigation, after the service, developed a short-circuit or something in the apparatus, explaining the failure; but the strange part of the affair has not been accounted for. The record on the phonograph that should have assisted meditation and didn't was "The Lost Chord."

"The Edward Weston Book," our photographer-artist's contribution to publications, has been awarded the American Institute of Graphic Arts tribute as one of the fifty best books of the year. "Edward Weston's Book," designed by Merle Armitage and printed by Will A. Kistler Co. of Los Angeles for the publisher, E. Weyhe of New York, is made up of magnificent reproductions of the best work of the photographer. It will now travel the country over in the exhibit of the best fifty books.

Ernest L. Thayer, who wrote that famous poem, "Casey at the Bat," one of America's masterpieces that will live as long as the national game exists, is in Carmel, at the Catherine Morgan rest home. Thayer was one of the staff on the Harvard University newspaper which, under the editorship of William Randolph Hearst, then an undergraduate, made such a success financially that it built a publishing plant from its surplus.

When old Senator Hearst asked son William, when leaving college, which of his numerous properties and projects he wished to take over, William asked only for the San Francisco Examiner. That morning paper had come into Senator Hearst's hands in some deal, and had always been a losing proposition. He passed it on to his son willingly enough. And William telegraphed for the men at Hartford, who had helped build that paper, to come and help him with this one.

Thayer received his message while traveling in Europe, but called a prompt "Yes," and took passage for home. He it was who first put the "column" into the daily press, starting a feature that has become universal. Like every

Naturally THE BETTER FUEL

CALIFORNIA climate presents a heating problem that demands easily controlled heat.

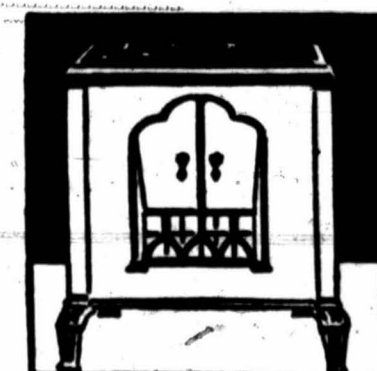

There are no long severe winters. Heat is needed for short periods and it must come quickly. To build up a big fire means wasted fuel. For quick-acting heat that warms floors and walls and circulates into every room corner, climate-wise Californians, rely on Natural Gas—naturally the better fuel.

Gas is piped directly to the furnace or heater and there is no bother to order or handle it. Natural Gas Heating equipment, too, was developed for California homes. Each of the newest types of equipment have known heat-output ratings ranging from the smaller space heaters to the full automatic warm-air furnaces. Investigate and see. Get the facts.

Floor Furnace

Solves the heating problem for homes without a basement. Highly praised by thousands. Saves floor space and is easy and most economical to install and operate.

Circulating Heater

Attractive, low in first cost and highly efficient. It heats two to four rooms. Made in many sizes and styles. Extremely economical to operate.

ABALONES READY TO START 1934 SEASON

Fog greeted the second Sunday of Abalone League Baseball practice on the Carmel Woods diamond, but no true Abalone player in the League's twelve years of strife ever let anything less than a broken leg get in the way of a good workout. Some pointed out that San Mateo, the arch enemy of the local boys, has foggy weather, too, and perhaps it was just as well to be ready for a challenge game in bad visibility.

Center of downtown athletic interest is Doc Staniford's store, and interested players who want to renew their alliance, or newcomers who seek to rub elbows with the famous can check in there until ten o'clock nights, and after eight o'clock mornings. Charles K. Van Riper, one of the original main-springs of the nationally known League, will be delayed in the east for some time yet, but sends strength-giving letters to the elder members in charge of organization for the coming Spring series.

Arise, Abalones—1934 is at your batting average.

BEAUTY SPECIALISTS GIVE FREE MAKE-UP

Beginning Monday at Pease the Druggist in Pacific Grove, and at Hilby's Drug Store in Monterey, beauty experts from the famed Hollywood cosmeticians who produce "Luminous Dawn" make-up, will give a free make-up and free advice on the care of the skin, with no obligations whatsoever.

There will be two specialists at each store, and each of them is an especially trained expert, according to Pease and Hilbert, who further state that the main advantage of the Luminous Dawn make-up lies in its absolute purity and in the fact that it produces the newest mode satiny sheen to the complexion to perfection.

For some time Mr. Pease and Mr. Hilby have been working to have these experts demonstrate their product at these stores, and it is with pride that this announcement is made this week.
